

Embraer establishes their first plant in Mexico

September 17, 2013

GIG News, Industry News

0 comments

The airplane assembler Embraer closed a deal with the French Group Zodiac Aerospace to create a joint-venture in Mexico. They will manufacture components for Embraer 170/190 cabins. The companies would not disclose the amount of the investment or the location of the new facilities, but Embraer confirmed that this will be their first plant in Mexico. Artur Coutinho, Chief Operations Officer for Embraer, said that the plant in Mexico will manufacture interiors for their family of E-jets and for the airplanes of tomorrow.